

Asia-Pacific Climate Change Adaptation Forum 2011 12-13 March 2012

Gender & Climate Adaptation Mainstreaming in Cambodia

Mr. Pisith SOK

Gender and Climate Change Secretariat
Ministry of Women's Affairs (MoWA)
Royal Government of Cambodia

Content

1. Why Gender Equality & Climate Adaptation
2. Impact of Climate Change on Cambodian Women
3. MoWA's Gender & CC Committee
4. Gender & Climate Adaptation Activity: Cambodia's NAPA Follow Up

1. Why Gender Equality & Climate Adaptation

- Gender Inequality is linked to vulnerability and risk
- Having inequality will be exacerbated by the impact of Climate Change
- Gender inequality restrains the effectiveness of mitigation and adaptation strategy if gender relations are not considered

2. Impact of Climate Change on Cambodian Women

Why does CC hit women harder?

- Women make up a majority of the poor
- Women work in sectors most affected
- Women are primary caretakers of children & house holds.
- Women have less access to & advantage over resources, services, and decision making
- Existing gender inequality

3. MoWA's Gender & CC Committee

- Coordinate & Cooperate with other institutions, NGOs, PDWA, and so on in area of mainstreaming gender into CC in National Policies & development programs.
- Coordinate & distribute gender mainstreaming media in programs & MoWA's departments
- Do capacity building for working groups & MoWA's staffs.
- Research the impact of CC or disaster on W,M, & Children
- Organize education campaign on Gender & CC
- Examine, follow up, & evaluate Gender implementation & CC aspects of the programs.

4. Gender & Climate Adaptation Activity : Cambodia's NAPA Follow Up

- Gender Action Plan (GAP) was finalized and implemented after the conduct of gender rapid assessments
- Gender & CC training manual was consulted with MoWA gender CC team
- Using Gender & CC training manual for teaching working groups and communities (Kratie & Preah Vihea provinces)

Orkun Chroeuun

Thank You For Your Attention!